HIGHER SUGAR IS PREDICTED

J. P. COOKE TALKS ON REVISION

Formosan Sugar Is Damaged

Detailed news has been received here by F. M. Swanzy of T. H. Davies & Co. of a terrible typhoon that has wrought an immense amount of damage in Formosa, wrecking sugar crops and sugar mills, and cutting the estimated output of sugar for the year almost to one half.

Not only is there great local interest in the news on account of the fact that Formosa has a number of big sugar factories built by the Honolulu Iron Works, but the effect of the storm on the sugar situation is direct, according to the opinion of local experts.

Honolulu-made machinery emerged from the storm with the splendid record of coming undamaged through the typhoon, whereas other mills were practically destroyed. Yesterday the Honolulu Iron Works received two cablegrams from Formosa sugar firms who had secured their mills here. Both cablegrams report that their mills came through without damage. This news was welcomed here, and it stamps the product of the local iron works as remarkably good. The mills were built

PAT M'LANE HAS MADE GREAT SUCCESS

By W. R. FARRINGTON

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Oct. 14.—"We have all the labor we want in Porto Rico. That is the least of our troubles," said Pat McLane, well known throughout Hawaii as the man who put Koloa plantation on its feet, and then went to Porto Rico, where he has made a signal success in the sugar business. The company he served as manager made a net profit last year of over $600,000. The capitalization is two millions. So there are other places

DREIER-CLARK DIVORCE VOID

Mrs. Emma H. Dreier, who married Henry C. Clark and then divorced him later, has taken up her name of Dreier again, but now the Supreme Court, by its decision yesterday in connection with divorce matters, holds that she is still Mrs. Clark and her divorce is illegal.

The court held that thirty days must elapse between the service of the libel and the issuing of the decree. Mrs. Dreier-Clark filed her case on August 2 and the divorce was granted August 8. The decree is now null and void, and search will have to be made for Henry C. Clark on the mainland. Meanwhile, if Mrs. Clark has sold any land the sale will not hold good, for the reason that her husband's signature must be on it.

E. E. (Donney) Hartman is another who was divorced this year and who now, by the decision of the court, finds himself still married.

Complications arise in the case of Cunha against Cunha, who set out to beat Reno speed, and succeeded. Mrs. Cunha, that was, married again the same afternoon and now finds that she has two husbands.

Cholera is epidemic in Tunis, a reversion and French protectorate of Northern Africa.

COOKE THINKS FAIR REVISION IS BENEFICIAL

"I believe that if, after a careful, scientific investigation of the costs of sugar production in Hawaii and the sugar situation here, Congress should revise the tariff on a scientific and not a political basis, it would be on the whole to the benefit of Hawaii, even if the tariff were cut from one-quarter to one-third. It would give the industry a permanence and stability, and Hawaiian sugar people would be able to figure on eight or ten years any way of an assured future."—J. P. Cooke.

J. P. Cooke made the above statement to a representative of the Bulletin this morning. He arrived from a mainland vacation trip on the Sierra this morning.

In discussing the sugar tariff revision, Mr. Cooke does not predict that the tariff will be revised. He says that there are many reports that it will be and that ultimately Congress will probably get to it. The point made by Mr. Cooke this morning is that scientific tariff revision, if impartially carried out, will not be a blow to Hawaii even should it involve a lowering of the present tariff rate from one-quarter to one-third. He believes that such an action would put Hawaii's sugar men where they can know what the future will bring and that the uncertainty at present apparent in the territory would give place to permanence and assurances for the future.

Militia A Credit To Hawaii Says Inspector

Captain Walter H. Johnson, U. S. A., the inspector-instructor detailed by the War Department to service with the National Guard of Hawaii has been in Honolulu only a week, but that he has spent in careful study of militia conditions here as set forth in reports and office filings, and he is now ready to get "on the job" with the officers and men of the organized militia here.

Personally Captain Johnson is an enthusiast, and his assignment to Honolulu is in line with his own wishes. He is the type of officer who gives one the impression of both soldierly smartness and efficiency. Cornered at his desk at militia headquarters this morning, with a Bulletin reporter between him and the door, Captain Johnson told something of the new

Army Post Plans Halt

BY C. S. ALBERT.

(Special Bulletin Correspondence.)
WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.—The plan for concentrating all the troops on the island of Oahu, near Honolulu, has come to a complete standstill in the absence of Secretary Stimson and Major General Leonard Wood. Both are now engaged in making an inspection of army posts along the Southern and Western borders of the United States. Nothing is being done in the meantime. It appears that many officers in the War Department here have grown weary seeking to solve the problem and have lost interest.
The fact is that so many different plans have been suggested, and so many sites advocated for the erection of barracks, that the question of selection has become bewildering. One set of plans provides for locating the troops near Honolulu. Others would place them on an elevated site, comprising 7000 acres, 20 miles from the city. All the troops, with the exception of the Coast Artillery, would then be removed to the new barracks. It is facetiously declared by Army officers that all the intervening space has
